Demand Consideration.

A prominent clergyman tells with great delight of a brother minister who was called to a certain church. A committee visited the minister and asked that he accept the call.

"I have been considering the matter," replied the reverend gentleman, "but my wife fears she may not like the church."

"But your wife doesn't preach," protested the committee.

"True enough," replied the clergyman thoughtfully, "but she frequently lectures."—Circle.

Marked Rededication of Bethel A. M. E. Church Yesterday.

ATTENDANCE WAS LARGE.

EDIFICE IS IMPROVED GREATLY—CHURCH HAS UNUSUAL DISTINCTION—CONTRIBUTIONS OF GENEROUS SIZE.

An institution is individual and acquires deserved support only in proportion to the good accomplished or calculated to accomplish, according to the declaration of Bishop C. T. Shaffer, who delivered the dedicatory sermon at the Bethel A. M. E. church yesterday morning. The services were attended by a large crowd. The bishop reviewed briefly the history of Bethel church, saying it was founded by "the immortal Quinn," one of the pioneer bishops of the African Methodist Episcopal church in 1837. It is the oldest church of the connection west of Pittsburg. The bishop stated that although the church has done a splendid work the work does not end merely with refurbishing and improvement, but the chief work lies in bringing about an improved community. He urged his hearers to see that this is done and guaranteed them the support of both races in such case.

The improvement of Bethel church has converted it into one of the most beautiful edifices devoted to church work and owned by a negro congregation in the state. The ceremonies yesterday were of a highly appropriate nature. In the afternoon a symposium was held. Among the speakers were the Revs. S. R. Lyons, R. H. Smith, E. G. Howard and D. C. Huntington, all pastors of local churches. A quartet from Indianapolis assisted the local choir.

The contributions during the day amounted to $621. This sum will be applied to the indebtedness incurred by the expense of rebuilding, which amounted to $3,000. The pastor and officers of the church have agreed to provide for one half of this sum. It is their expectation to have $500 more contributed during this week. The final services in connection with the dedication will be held next Sunday, when president R. L. Kelly of Earlham college preaches the sermon.

BLOW TO ADE'S TOWN.

Must Start Again as Result of Storm.

Morocco, Ind., Aug. 17—George Ade's town, south of this place, will have to start over again. During the recent storm in that vicinity the almost completed new store building, the pride of the town, was wrecked beyond repair.

HOOVER FAMILY REUNION.

The annual reunion of the Hoover family will be held on the farm of Rudolph Hoover near Hagerstown, Aug. 19th. There will be a large number of Richmond persons in attendance.

EXCURSIONISTS HOME

Palladium-Sun-Telegram Party Returns From Tour of Ontario Region.

ALL WERE WELL PLEASED.

The successful candidates in the recent Niagara Falls contest held by the Palladium and Sun-Telegram have returned after eleven and one half days of pleasure, spent in the great lakes region. The party left Richmond on Wednesday, Aug. 5, over the C. & L. to Peru in a private car under the direction of T. J. Golding. At Peru the car was transferred to New York Central lines and taken directly to Niagara Falls where the party put up at the Tower hotel. Here the party of 29 was entertained in a most delightful manner by M. J. Honing. The party spent several days here and made a trip and side excursion to Canada and other points. After viewing everything possible at Niagara the visitors left for Toronto, Canada, where they put up at the Arlington hotel, where they were treated in a royal manner by Mr. Hurst the manager of the place. Here they went sight-seeing in an automobile and one afternoon the party secured two big trophies and spent the afternoon celebrating. From Toronto the party came back by the way of Niagara Falls, going to Buffalo and to Detroit. While on their way to Detroit the boat occupied by the party was caught in a storm and a number of them became ill. From Detroit the party returned home.

All the members of the party are well pleased with their trip. During the time they were on the trip they were on different steamers and stopped at six of the best hotels in the great lake region.

The Palladium-Sun-Telegram management feels grateful to Charles Blair, local agent of the C. C. & L. and the cooperation of that railroad. The party was composed of Misses Ida Beeson, Lucie Benton, Goldie Myers, Jennie White, Maude Pettibone, Goldie Daddison, Elsie Wyatt, Rosa Kuehn, Maude Norris, Elsie Wilson, Minnie Marshall, Nettie Paulston; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Paulston, Mr. and Mrs. John Woodhurst, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Diehl, Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Myrick, Jr., Mrs. Geo. B. Dougan, Mrs. Cora Mullen, Mrs. Olga Turner, Mrs. Maude Freeman, Miss Gertrude Hasenbusch, Joseph Hasenbusch, Dan Gates and Daniel Woodhurst.

Getting It Correct.

The preacher was offering his felicitations to the newly married couple, says the Chicago Tribune.

"Young man," he said, "you have gained one of the fairest maids in the community. And you, young lady, have won a stalwart partner, whose good right arm will level every obstacle that stands in the way of your success in life."

"Left, Mr. Goodman, left," corrected the bride, with a proud look at the stately athlete by her side. "George is a south paw, you know."

.. this concerns you, read carefully, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is positively guaranteed to cure indigestion, constipation, sick head, offensive breath, malaria and all diseases arising from stomach trouble.

A FRIGHT IN MIDAIR

Going Up in a Balloon and Coming Down in a Parachute.

THE AGONY OF A FIRST TRIP

Experience and Sensations of an Acrobat Who Took the Place of a Professional Aeronaut in an Emergency. The Dash Through Space.

I once went up in a balloon and came down in a parachute. Something went wrong, and all the money in the world doubled would not induce me to make the experiment again.

One grows strangely accustomed to dangers as an acrobat, and when it was suggested that I should earn $25 in as many minutes by taking the place of a parachutist who had fallen ill at the last minute I jumped at the chance. It was at a large country fair. The laughing crowd had probably never seen a balloon go up. As the great silk bag gradually swelled a silence fell upon the onlookers.

The sick parachutist's manager patted me on the back and said it was money easily earned. I agreed—then.

"Keep cool," he said, "and, whatever you do, don't look down except to judge your distance from the earth. You see that tower? It is about a thousand yards away. When you are that distance up pull the check string and shut your eyes."

A dull murmur rose as the ropes were cast off and I felt my feet leave the ground. The upward movement was gentle, and a great cheer came up to me until the band drowned it.

I hardly heard the cheering or the band. The involuntary murmur still rang in my ears. Perhaps my nerves were upset, possibly it was intuition, but from the moment I was drawn up from the ground I felt the conviction that grim trouble lay ahead.

Ignoring the oft repeated instructions, I looked down. How slowly the balloon went up! Could it be possible that I had not gone more than a hundred yards? The giant overhead became a living thing, intent on torturing the puny mortal who had trusted his life to it. I knew I dared not leap before I was high enough, for the parachute takes 100 feet sometimes to open.

I shut my eyes and tried to count to kill time, but the figures became jumbled, and I looked down again. A swallow skimmed past underneath. Far below there was a sea of upturned faces, and the music floated up distinctly. The balloon seemed to have stopped rising, and for an eternity I entered to gauge the height.

Again the band stopped, and I was in a silent world. The crowd of breathless specks far beneath was getting full value for its money. The only noise I heard was the beating of the blood through my head. I was afraid. It was the first real fear I had ever felt in my work.

When the supreme moment came I pulled the string without realizing what I was doing.

What years I lived in those next few seconds. An appalling nausea and a wild desire to live came with the first terrible rush, and my heart stood still as I looked eagerly aloft. The ropes of the parachute had twisted, and I was falling to instant death.

Grasping the ropes in a clutch of steel, I shook them frantically. Half the huge parachute belled out with a noise like a pistol shot, and the speed of the fall was lessened with a jar.

The Forgotten Life and the Sad Fate of the Herring.

The experiments of men of science sometimes furnish amusement to those who are not particularly interested in the slow, minute and apparently insignificant investigations by means of which important physical facts are learned. It is interesting to know that if we cut off the tails of forty successive generations of mice at their birth not one mouse, even in the fourth generation, will be born without a tail. But when the man of science was engaged in cutting off the baby mice's tails all the world laughed at him.

The slow experiments to test the possibility that by degrees an animal may change its habitat—a land animal taking to water, and so on—were thus amusingly satirized in Germany:

Some time ago Herr Professor Schiltzer, the eminent biologist who is making experiments relative to the changes of habitat made by animals, captured a live herring. He took the fish home and kept it in a large vat of salt water. Every morning the professor dipped out of this vat half a teaspoonful of salt water and replaced it with an equal amount of fresh water.

The herring survived and passed his days apparently in the best of spirits. In the course of time the water in the tank was rendered completely fresh. Not a grain of salt was left in it. And still the herring remained cheerful and healthy. Next the herring pro-

Again I shook the death trap. The ropes were sliding at a snail's pace, and bit by bit the parachute was opening. Still I fell far too fast. I could not breathe, and my hands seemed to be refusing to hold on.

Bang! The last fold had opened out, and I was saved. Dizzy and numb with fear, I held on tightly, wondering whether I should faint before I touched the ground. That, and that only, was my thought as I sailed through the space. I had almost lost consciousness when my feet touched the ground gently. And then I collapsed.—Buffalo Times.

THE MAN KILLING CAMEL.

A Turk's Consideration For the Brute's Future Owner.

There had come with us from Hebron a Turkish soldier riding a young camel whose virtues he boasted and indeed exhibited—the clean limbs, the stride and the docility of the beast. It seemed a worthy camel—a camel of excellent humor
